The University of Florida Association for Academic Women (AAW) provides opportunities for women faculty and professional staff to network and enhance their knowledge about the University of Florida and their work environment.

AAW programs are also open to non-members, though members are offered the opportunity to reserve a seat before each event is opened to others. Members also can take advantage of reduced prices for functions where a charge is involved. You may join at any time by sending in your membership form (available on the Web along with updated program information at <http://grove.ufl.edu/~aaw/index.shtml>). Our modest $25 annual dues are used primarily for fellowships to female UF doctoral students.
