

Guidelines for the Korean Graduate Student Research Award 2009
To all Graduate Students at UF from Korea including the Hanseng Group:

I founded the Korean Scholastic Excellence Fund, and our goal each year is to recognize the best research efforts by a graduate student at UF from Korea with a certificate and check for $500. This is the only award that focuses specifically on the achievements of graduate students from Korea, and it has been made possible by the generous contributions of University of Florida alumni, matching funds from the New York times and the donations of some friends in Korea.

If you'd be interested in applying for this award, you'll find details on-line at < <http://grove.ufl.edu/~ksa/acts/award.html> >

Here are the guidelines to be considered for this award:

All applicants from any college must have at least four publications in reputable journals and be senior author on at least two. All papers must be related to research work done while pursuing a Ph.D. degree at the University of Florida.

Additional requirements are a letter of recommendation from your advisor, along with a brief summary of your thesis research, a short personal C.V. (include Social Security number) and reprints. Summary of thesis research work should include candidate's previous work on the project, current approach to the problem and significance of the research. Limit this summary to one page.

The deadline to get this material to me is October 15. For further information contact me by e-mail at < pwchun@ufl.edu >.

The selection committee consists of one member of the College of Medicine, one member from the College of Engineering, a representative of the New York Times Company and myself. No more than two awards will be given in a single year.

Completed applications should be sent to the following address:

Dr. Paul W. Chun
Box 100245, Dept of Biochem.& Mol. Biol.
University of Florida College of Medicine
Gainesville, Florida 32610-0245